Yanos is a gang leader operating in the forests near Maribor, in Temeria, in 1244.

He presents himself as the 'lord of the Grycholckie Mountains' and leads a troop of about thirty men. His men wear rags; some are armed with bows, others with clubs. He claims to 'take from the rich to give to the poor.'

He invites travelers to a feast in a forest shelter made up of huts located in a clearing. According to known information, he recently distributed gold to the villagers of Sucha Woda to gain their favor. He plans to take advantage of a future trade route to Mahakam.

He sometimes sells stolen items to the locals and has established financial ties with Kuśtyk. His initial intention toward the heroes is to frighten them, feign friendship, and then kill and rob them in their sleep.^[1]
